

Alonso García Tamés. He studied Actuarial Sciences at the Universidad Anáhuac (1982). He has attended several courses and seminars since his enrollment at the Central Bank of Mexico, in the United States, Japan and Europe, mainly on Portafolio Management, Foreign Exchange and Monetary Policy. He joined the Central Bank of Mexico in 1981 and since then Mr. García had been involved in areas in charge of the Management of the International Reserves, the Peso-Dollar Exchange, the execution of the open market operations and in the design of some Peso-Dollar exchange risk hedging vehicles. He was in charge of the General Direction of Central Banking Operations at the Central Bank. He joined the Ministry of Finance and Public Credit on December 2000 as General Director of Public Credit. Under Secretary of Finance and Public Credit in Mexico on 2003 to 2006. At the present he is General Director of BANOBRAS.

Sept/2010